

B.C. History of Nursing Society (BCHNS) Photocopying Regulations

The BC History of Nursing Society Archives provides photocopy and photographic reproduction services for a fee, but reserves the right to restrict reproduction of its materials due to condition, size, or donor restrictions. Reproduction of material does not constitute permission to publish; permission must be obtained from the Archivist along with following the guidelines outlined on the Researcher Application. Researchers are responsible for observing all Canada's copyright laws. All material held at the Archives is subject to copyright regulations as well as considerations related to the physical condition of the materials. Where applicable, further restrictions may apply. Researchers must respect copyright regulations and all restrictions set by the BCHNS Archives.

For any material acquired from the Archives and used in a publication or display, the researcher agrees to make proper acknowledgement to the BCHNS Archives.

Please note: Photocopying causes permanent damage to books and documents through exposure to strong light, heat and UV radiation and through handling. To prolong the life of the historic and contemporary documents held at the BCHNS Archives photocopying and duplication of materials is strictly regulated. The BCHNS reserves the right to refuse the photocopying and duplication of very fragile materials housed at the Archives.

- Duplication of photographic prints may only be made at the discretion of the Archivist. No photocopies may be made from original photographs. Duplication of photographic prints may only be made at the discretion of the Archivist. Copyright and the physical condition of the photographic print are the primary considerations. A professional reprographic centre will carry out duplication of photographic materials.
- The Archives reserves the right to refuse photocopying of any item which is likely to suffer substantially in the copying process.
- A trained member of the Archives staff must carry out photocopying of archive material.
- No photocopies may be made from parchment documents or volumes bound in parchment or vellum.
- Substantial photocopying of copyrighted work is not permitted. Copyright regulations will be upheld.
- No photocopies may be made from books or other copyrighted works that are more than 2" thick, weigh 10lb or more, are larger than the photocopier platen or have tight bindings. Copyright and the physical condition of the publications/materials are the primary considerations.
- No photocopies may be made from books and documents with torn or brittle pages, or with loose pages, and/or torn, missing or deteriorating covers.
- Under certain circumstances, limited photocopying services are available.
- Charges vary according to the material being photocopied or duplicated. All fees are to be paid by the Researcher either prior to the duplication or photocopying process.